VOL. XLVIII.—No. 228.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 15, 1919.

PRICE TWO CENTS.

CITY WILL BUY SEAGRAVE AUTO HOOK AND LADDER TRUCK

Fire Commissioners Authorize Purchase at Price Not to Exceed $9,827—Type Used at New Haven and Fills Need Here.

The board of fire commissioners at a meeting held Monday evening, at Central Fire Station, after hearing the report of the committee appointed on May 25, to inspect auto hook and ladder trucks, with a view of purchasing one for the Kingston Fire Department, adopted the report and adopted a resolution to purchase an auto truck of the Seagrave Company, to be a six cylinder truck of 120 horse power, with all equipments, at a cost not to exceed $9,827, one-quarter to be paid on delivery of motor truck on floor of fire station, and one-quarter each on April 1, 1920, 1921 and 1922.

The Committee's Work.
The committee reported that in pursuance to the resolution adopted at the regular meeting in May, correspondence had been had with several motor apparatus manufacturers and meetings held with the representatives of several companies and consultations had with dealers in this city. Visits were made to New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn., where motor hook and ladder trucks had recently been installed in the fire department. At New Haven a Seagrave motor apparatus of about the same type and capacity needed for the Kingston department was given a careful examination by the full committee with Deputy Chief Murphy and Superintendent of Fire Alarm Elmendorf, and specifications and proposals were requested from the Seagrave Co., the American LaFrance, the White, the Mack and the Brockway Companies. The American LaFrance and the Brockway Companies did not submit proposals. The proposal of the Mack Company was not given serious consideration for the reason that the Mack truck did not appear to be serviceable for this department.

The White Truck Company's proposal was for $10,000 and needed interest, but necessary equipment that would cost $500 extra was not included. Another disadvantage, the truck has only four cylinders developing 45 horse power, which in the opinion of our committee is inadequate for the service a hook and ladder truck will be called to perform in this city.

To Pay in Four Installments.

In the proposal submitted by the Seagrave Company they propose to furnish a six-cylinder, 120 horse power motor hook and ladder truck, with standard equipment, using the chemical tanks now in possession of this department, thereby making a saving to the department of at least $500; they also agree to furnish all extra equipment, which we consider absolutely necessary for a complete up-to-date hook and ladder truck, for the sum of $9,827 delivered on the floor of the Central Fire Station, one-quarter of purchase price payable on delivery, one-quarter April 1st, 1920, one-quarter April 1, 1921, and the remaining quarter on April 1, 1922. After an exhaustive examination of the mechanism and seeing the Seagrave hook and ladder truck operated by the New Haven fire department, and taking into consideration the extra equipment, purchase price and terms for payment, all of which will more fully appear in the contract proposed to be submitted to this board, your committee of the whole are unanimous in their judgment that the Seagrave six cylinder, 120 horse power motor hook and ladder truck will fully meet every requirement of the service in this department, and will prove a great benefit to the prompt, efficient and economical service of the department.

Horse-Drawn Truck Obsolete.

The following resolution was then offered and adopted:

Whereas, this board realizing that the horse drawn hook and ladder truck now in use in this department is obsolete, unsuitable for the needs of this city; dangerous to operate and expensive to maintain, and

Resolved, that this board do now enter into a contract with the Seagrave Company for the purchase and delivery of a six cylinder, 120 horse power motor hook and ladder truck, with all equipments, at a cost not to exceed $9,827 upon the terms specified in their proposal, and contract to be signed by the members of this board for the fire department, and the representative of the Seagrave Company, on the part of the city.

Belshazzar Claim Success.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 15.—Russian Bolshevik troops fighting Admiral Kolchak's forces on the Ural front, claim the capture of Perm and Kungur, said a news agency dispatch from Helsinki today. Both towns are important and were previously held by Admiral Kolchak's men. Perm is the capital of the government of the same name and Kungur is fifty miles south of it.

LONDON OVATION FOR PERSHING

Honors Showered on American Commander-in-Chief by All From King George Down—Faces Busy Week.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 15.—General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, arrived in London from France shortly after noon today and was given a tremendous ovation.

General Pershing had arrived at Dover on the destroyer Orpheus and as the warship moved through the harbor the British men of war and shore batteries fired an ear-splitting salute of welcome.

At Dover General Pershing was met by General Sir H. H. Horne, of the British army, and a guard of honor. A special saloon car was provided for the trip to London and the train arrived at the Victoria station at 12:35 o'clock.

Met by Churchill.
Colonel Winston S. Churchill, secretary of state for war, representatives of Field Marshal Haig, the British commander in chief, and a guard of honor, officially welcomed the American commander at the station. Outside in the streets great crowds gave an unofficial greeting by cheering and waving flags.

Accompanied by Colonel Churchill, General Biddle, commander of the American soldiers in England, General Brewster and numerous staff officers, General Pershing was driven past Buckingham Palace to the Carlton Hotel.

At King's Garden Party.

A busy program confronts the American commander. He will be the guest of John W. Davis, the American ambassador, tonight. At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning he will be decorated with the distinguished service medal. Later General Pershing will be the guest of honor of the American Legion Club, other guests being Colonel Churchill, Viscount Milner, colonial secretary, Viscount Peel, under war secretary, and other notables. After the luncheon General Pershing will be the guest of King George at a garden party on the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

A government dinner will be tendered the distinguished American soldier at the Capetown Hotel Wednesday evening. Field Marshal Haig, General Sir H. H. Horne and other noted men will be present. General Pershing will be King George's guest at luncheon on Thursday.

Following the luncheon, General Pershing will be the guest of Colonel Churchill at a reception, where he will be presented to members of parliament and military officials.

To Review Own Troops.

A number of American troops will be reviewed by General Pershing at Hyde Park on Friday. Afterwards the freedom of the city will be conferred upon the American commander in chief, an unusual honor for a foreign soldier.

The ceremony will take place at Gildhall, where General Pershing will receive the gift of a sword of honor. General Pershing will then be the guest of honor at Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London. In the evening a government dinner will be tendered in his honor in the house of commons.

A composite regiment of 3,100 American soldiers who fought under General Pershing in France will arrive at Southampton on Thursday morning at 6 o'clock and will proceed to London by train, arriving at Victoria station, at 11:30 o'clock. The doughboys will then form and march down the Strand and through Whitehall and Bird Cage Walk. They will be billeted in hospitals in the rear of the American embassy. Free theatrical tickets will be provided for the Americans on Thursday and Friday nights, the latter occasion being a double barbed affair, with three boxing entertainments at the National Sporting Club. Many private parties have been gotten up for the Americans on Sunday night when the Knights of Columbus will give a dance.

Polk May Be Berlin Envoy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 15.—Frank L. Polk, under secretary of state, who is soon to go to Paris to succeed Secretary of State Lansing, as head of the American peace mission, is being prominently mentioned for appointment as the United States ambassador to Berlin, when the senate ratifies the peace treaty.

British Minesweeper Sunk.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 15.—The British minesweeper, Richard Beckett, was sunk in the North Sea on Sunday by the loss of her commander, F. R. King, and seven members of the crew. It was announced by the admiralty today.

WILSON OPPOSES RESERVATIONS

President Believes Senate Opposition Too Weak to Change Treaty—Will Explain Shantung Clause—Need Only Democratic Opponent.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 15.—President Wilson will fight to the last ditch against reservations by the United States to the German peace treaty. This was again emphasized by administration leaders today.

Predictions that the president would agree to inconsequential changes through reservations to "save the faces" of certain senators were said to be utterly without foundation by administration leaders. They insisted that the president has thoroughly canvassed the general situation and that he is convinced that the opposition cannot muster enough senate votes for any single reservation in order to incorporate it in the treaty.

Since his arrival in Washington, the president has dealt principally with certain Democratic senators who were reported to be wavering in their support of the treaty. As a result of these conferences, Mr. Wilson was said, by the men closest to him, to be certain that there will not be more than one Democratic senator—Reed, of Missouri—recorded in favor of any modifications of the treaty.

To Appose Shantung Opponents.

The president believes that so far as the Shantung agreement is concerned, he will be able to explain his action in this connection so that certain Republican votes which are lined up in opposition to the treaty, largely because of this one provision, will be available for ratification.

The president is very anxious, his advisers say, to explain the Shantung situation to the senate. He has discovered that many of the facts concerning these negotiations have not been made plain, even to administration lieutenants in the upper branch of the congress. When the president appears before the senate foreign relations committee to tell of the negotiations, he will make the following explanation:

First, that Italy, France and Belgium had bound themselves in the most explicit terms by a secret treaty entered into with Japan at the commencement of the war, to confer in perpetuity on Japan all rights and benefits enjoyed by Germany under its "terms" treaty with China extracted from the latter country.

China-Jap Agreement.

Second—That the Chinese government also has entered into a secret agreement with Tokyo—Chinese diplomats say it was given concessions along the line of the so-called 21 demands—originally insisted on by Japan and later reluctantly withdrawn following a vigorous protest by the state department.

Third—That when he (President Wilson) after a conference with Wellington Koo, one of the Chinese peace commissioners, protested against Japan retaining any rights whatever at Shantung, the representatives of Great Britain, Mr. Lloyd George, of France, M. Clemenceau, and of Italy, Signor Orlando, pronounced the secret treaty and announced that its terms were in every way binding upon them and that they were prepared to insist that Japan should have all concessions promised. This left the United States absolutely alone in opposition.

Fought Jap Claims Hard.

Fourth—That for more than ten days, he (the president), fought the Japanese claims with the result that he secured the following modifications which were agreed to by the Japanese delegates and ratified by the British, French and Italian premiers: That Japan will surrender to China all territorial rights within the Shantung peninsula, including the fortified area of Tsingtau; agree to withdraw all Japanese troops from the area of the peninsula, reserving only the right to create four settlements thereon, but outside of the fortified districts; that Japan will substitute Chinese police for Japanese guards, reserving the right, however, first to train them with Japanese officers; that Japan will retain the ownership and operation of the railway lines on the peninsula, but will accept jurisdiction by the league of nations' council when formed regarding the term that such ownership and operation shall continue.

Allies Racked Japs.

How far this explanation will go towards satisfying the senators who have been opposed to the Shantung settlement in every way, cannot be forecast at the present time. However, administration leaders believe that it will win votes, inasmuch as it is conceded that the president found the cards stacked on this question for Japan, and her claims solidly supported by her original allies in the war.

So far as the opposition to ratification of the peace of nations' constitution is concerned, the president, his advisers say, will call the attention of the senators to the fact that in order that any action under that section should be binding upon the United States that action must be provided by the United States itself through its representative on the council. And it will be argued that approval would certainly be withheld until the attitude of the American people towards the problem under discussion could be ascertained.

700 LAND ARMY GIRLS ON ULSTER CO. FRUIT FARMS

They Are Saving the Crops After Every Other Source of Labor Supply Had Failed—Farmers Want at Least 400 More—Girls Find Conditions Attractive.

The Women's Land Army, laughed at by most persons even when it came into existence as a war organization, and forgotten since then by those who once laughed at it, is saving the fruit crop of Southern Ulster this year. Without it an enormous amount of food would go to waste and fruit farmers would lose hundreds of thousands of dollars. Farmers did not take kindly to the Land Army at first. They reasoned that if city boys were more of a nuisance than a benefit on a farm, city girls would be worse. "Anyway, what can a lot of girls do?" they asked. So they exhausted every other possible source of labor supply before deciding to call in the Land Army. Finally they decided to try it and a total of 380 farmerettes were called for in the Marlborough fruit district.

Army Made Good.

The Land Army came, and saw, and conquered. It made good. Today there are 700 Land Army girls working on the fruit farms and there is work for 400 more. The fruit-growers are satisfied with their work and are asking for more. Headquarters, in charge of Miss Walsh and Miss Mitchell, are in the skating rink building in Marlborough, where a central kitchen is in operation, doing the cooking for the 28 camps located on the neighboring farms. The one automobile truck the army has is kept busy distributing supplies. The lack of more trucks is a severe handicap, but with one available miracle is being performed.

"Another severe handicap is that fruit farmers have specialized so extremely that vegetables have to be bought in New York city and milk in Newburgh and transported to the camp. By next year the Land Army hopes to remedy this by acquiring a tract of land and operating a farm on which vegetables will be grown, thus effecting a great saving in cost besides improving the quality and avoiding delay and inconvenience.

For overcoming these obstacles much of the credit is due to Mrs. Otto R. Eichel, state executive director of the Land Army.

Need More Workers.

The main thing that now limits the work of the Land Army is inability to obtain enough workers. An adverse report made on conditions in Ulster county last year by a person in charge of boys' camps was given with publicity and causes girls to be reluctant to come here. The fact that the boys' camps were more or less a failure may have had something to do with that report. At least, that is what the fruit growers believe. Any way, they prefer farmerettes to boys and the farmerettes find no fault with their camps or with labor and social conditions. Here are some letters from the girls in camp:

"We Are All Smiling."

Marlborough, N. Y., July 10, 1919.
My Dear Miss Walsh:
It is with pleasure that I inform you of the conditions of our camp, namely, Mr. Hepworth's.

We are all smiling. It is possible to be smiling while hungry? Rarely. Should one want to smile with us, visit our dining room at 5:30 a. m., 12 m., or 6 p. m. A more competent dietician could not be found, or even desired.

A happy, co-operative spirit prevails at home and on the field. The former being greatly augmented by the farmers, by whom we are employed, would meet with your satisfaction. Our camp motto is: "Sleep Well—Eat Well—Work Well." May this be a most successful season.

Very truly yours,

MARIE VAN WICKLEN.
"Brown and Well."

July 10, 1919.

Have just visited seven different camps which are under the supervision of the N. Y. State Land Army and found them all as well as well, with a bountiful supply of food for the girls, and the girls themselves who were not working today, on account of the rain, happy with their work, and looking very brown and well.

The farmers are pleased with the work of the "farmerettes" and the only complaint they have is that there are not enough girls.

Yours truly,
(Signed) Harriet Stark, A. N. C. Acting Dietician.

"What More Can Mother Want?"

Camp Young, Marlborough, N. Y., July 10th, 1919.

My Dear Miss Walsh:
I came up here with the idea of helping the labor conditions at Ulster county, and also to gain in health and strength what I lost this winter.

I have found at Camp Young a delightful home life, good food and plenty of it, congenial surroundings, hard work, short hours, and girls of my own age to "pal" with. The work is interesting, and our supervisor, Mrs. John Quincy Adams, is always on the alert to find interesting things to do after hours and on rainy days. The central office of the Land Army is a pleasant place, in which we hold our Saturday night dances, and where we can go for recreation any night, with our supervisor's permission, as long as we return at the specified time. The Land Army heads think just as much of good times for the girls as they do of good food—so what more can mortal want?

Very truly yours,
ELSIE FISHMAN.
"Come to Ulster County."
Marlborough, N. Y.,
July 10th, 1919.

Dear Miss Walsh:

In accordance with your request for a statement regarding the conditions of the camps in Ulster county, I would state that everything is absolutely good and as perfect as camp life can be. Plenty of fresh air, good food and plenty of exercise. All the girls we have here are improving in health, and leave camp life with regret when business calls call them back to the city; but they all will leave with a good reserve of health and energy. To those who wish to combine work with happiness, I would say come to Ulster county. It is the spot where God has lavished his gifts most generously.

Most respectfully yours,

(Signed) ALICE MOISANT,
Supervisor, Camp Hepworth.

As to what the farm owners think, the fact that they are clamoring for 400 more members of the Land Army to help save their crops is a sufficient indication. Successful, practical men like Messrs. Vail, Hepworth, Velle and Young are not swayed by fads, sentiment or theory in such matters.

Probably one secret of the success of the Women's Land Army is the uniform and the discipline. Any member who does not make good is expelled promptly and, "with bells," as a few have been. All classes are eligible and all classes are represented: college girls to factory girls are on the same level in the work of the Army, only efficiency and character counting in their standing.

P. O. EMPLOYEES RECEIVE INCREASE

Employees of the Kingston post-office, including clerks and carriers, benefit by the new postoffice appropriation bill which became effective July 1. The bill makes the minimum wage schedule from $1,000 to $1,500 for the clerks and carriers. Postmaster DeWitt stated this morning that the majority of the clerks and carriers are already receiving the limit of $1,500, but there were a few that would be benefited. The three janitors receive an increase in pay of $120 a year. There is also an automatic raise of $109 a year that goes into effect after a man has been in the service for one year, but this does not apply to those already receiving the $1,500. Mr. DeWitt stated.

TROOPERS CONTROL ROME STRIKERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, N. Y., July 15.—The situation in the metal trades strike here, involving about 4,000 employees, is quieter today following the arrival of about 75 state constabulary, with Major Chandler, superintendent of state police, in charge. These officers picked up 20 or 30 of the leaders of the strikers, who are mostly Russians and Italians, during the night and much hostility and W. V. literature was found in their possession. Nearly half of the huge crowd of strikers who menaced life and property in the factory district Monday were found to be armed and their weapons were taken away from them by the state police.

Exchange Hotel Sold.

In the office of Attorney Grant J. Brinley, Saturday afternoon, the contract for the sale of the Exchange Hotel property, corner of Main and Partition streets, was signed. The property is owned by the Snyder estate of Kingston and H. W. Rembert, who recently retired from the management of the hotel, is the purchaser of the property, although it is understood a number of other Sauerettes men are interested in the purchase. Real Estate Agent Edward Moran is the local representative of the Snyder estate in the deal. The purchase price is said to be $3,900.

CAUSE OF FATAL LOCOMOTIVE EXPLOSION NOT YET KNOWN

Railway Officials Investigating North Yard Accident Which Resulted In Death of Three—Said To Have Been Engine Trouble at Catskill Where Water Was Taken.

The Dead.

James Harry Hankinson, engineer, of No. 602 Harrison Place, West New York, aged 39 years.

John James Popowick, fireman, of No. 728 Hudson Place, North Bergen, N. J., aged 30 years.

Herbert Earl, brakeman, of Dumont, N. J., aged 22 years.

That is the death toll that followed the blowing up of the boiler on West Shore locomotive No. 3174, hauling a fast south-bound freight shortly after 6 o'clock Monday evening about a mile north of the Bogart crossing, of the road that joins the Saugerties road. The explosion occurred almost opposite the summer home of ex-Mayor John E. Kraft. Just what caused the huge boiler to explode is not known definitely, but one theory is that the feed pipe, feeding water into the boiler, was defective.

Died on Way to Hospital.

Engineer Harry Hankinson and the other two members of the train crew were hurled out of the engine cab by the force of the terrific explosion, which was heard plainly in Kingston. Hankinson was picked up unconscious and died while being placed in an automobile to be hurried to the hospital here. He sustained a fractured skull, and was badly burned about the body. Fireman Popowick also died in an auto while on the way to the Benedictine Sanitarium. No bones were found broken, but he was badly cut and bruised about the body and scalded. Head brakeman Harry Earl died shortly after reaching the Kingston City Hospital. His injuries consisted of a bad scalp wound, broken knee, body and head covered with bruises and burns, and both eyes burned out. He was the only one of the three that was picked up conscious, and remained so until his death.

Traffic Tied Up.

The wreck, one of the worst in years, crippled traffic on both north and south bound tracks for several hours. The south bound freight consisted of fifty-eight cars loaded with perishable food for New York city. The wrecking crew of the Ulster & Delaware railroad was called out and assisted in clearing up the wreck and making the tracks passible.

What Rogers Saw.

Russell Rogers, who resides on the hill nearly opposite where the explosion occurred, was an eye witness of the tragedy. He said that he was driving up to his house in his car when he heard the freight train coming down the line. The train was a long, heavy one and was making good speed as he watched it. Suddenly he saw a flash of light between the engine and the tender such as would be caused by the reflection from the fire in the firebox as seen from the fireman's door to throw in more coal.

Then he saw the boiler rise up on one end and topple over in front of the engine. He turned his car and when he got around the train was coming to a stop. The boiler had toppled over to one side, and one end was down dragging along the track. He drove hurriedly towards the tracks through the field near where the men were found. He helped pick up Brakeman Earl and talked with him. Earl told him his name and kept asking for water. Rogers placed the wounded man in his car and carried him to the hospital here.

Ran Quarter Of A Mile.

The force of the explosion stripped the big engine down to the running gear. The momentum of the heavy train behind the engine drove the wrecked engine for fully a quarter of a mile toward Kingston, the tracks and coupling and ripping up the road bed and twisting the rails out of shape.

Where the Men Lay.

Engineer Hankinson was found by Conductor Harry J. Lundy of West New York and the other members of the train crew, none of whom were injured, along Track No. 2, in the right of way on the "underside" side of the train. Fireman Popowick was found between the tracks and Brakeman Earl between Track No. 1 and the wire fence separating the right of way and Ex-Mayor Kraft's field.

Many Harry to Score.

At the time of the explosion there were a number of automobile parties driving along the Saugerties road, and they quickly stopped and hurried to the scene. One of the party was Dr. B. W. Gilford of Saugerties, and he was among the first to reach the tracks and made an examination of the three men. He found all three alive, and after his examination stated that they were dying.

Engineer Hankinson was placed in Dr. Gilford's car and the physician started for Kingston accompanied by one of the men who had assisted him in placing the engineer in his car. The engineer, however, died on the way in and Dr. Gilford drove direct to Conductor

A Kelly's undertaking establishment on West Union street.

Flanagan Brought In Fireman.
E. Frank Flanagan of S. Cohen's Sons, was on his way to Glasco to fit the Glasco band with new uniforms. He stopped at the scene and offered his car, and Fireman Popowick was placed in it and hurried to the Benedictine Sanitarium. Popowick also died on the way to the hospital. His body was also turned over to Conductor Kelly.

Kelly To Locate Families.

Coroner Kelly will notify the families of the three dead men. From what Earl said while dying it was evident that he was trying to give direction about an aunt in New Jersey. She is thought to reside in Dumont, N. J. Engineer Hankinson's father is said to reside in Catskill.

Engine Took On Water At Catskill.

Conductor Lundy when asked as to the cause of the explosion said that no report of the engine being defective had been made to him by the engineer. He said that he did hear from one of his crew that there was some difficulty with the engine, which had taken on water at Catskill.

A Litter of Metal.

Those first on the scene of the accident say it presented a scene of the worst kind of wreck. For a mile along the tracks is a litter of metal some of the pieces falling into the fields stretching along the line. The upper end of the Kraft field opposite where the explosion took place is burned over by a fire which started from the contents of the firebox on the engine.

The engine was cleaned down to its wheels. The boiler laid forward of the trucks bottom side up. The forward end of the tender was wrecked with a large jagged hole torn through the upper part of it.

Only one car in the train appeared to be damaged. A hole had been driven through one side of it just under the roof, and the sliding around the hole was badly splintered. The car stood upright on the rails with the rest of the train which was not disconnected anywhere. Parts of the engine were found lying across the north bound track. A cylinder head was found imbedded in the earth between the north bound track and the fence. Further back an air brake connecting pipe lay across the right of way.

Cab Blown to Pieces.

The cab on the engine in which the dead men were riding was blown to pieces, and the tracks along the line were strewn with torn and twisted pieces from it.

City Ambulance Sent To Scene.

The police department sent the ambulance to the scene together with Motorcycle Policemen. Soper, but their services were not needed as the injured had been hurried to Kingston.

Physicians At West Shore.

Several of the local physicians also hurried to the West Shore station to be on hand in case their services were needed, as it was not known just how many had been injured or killed in the wreck.

Made Up Train At Saugerties.

Train No. 18 stood in the Kingston yard ready to pull north when the report of the wreck was received. A train was made up at Saugerties and run down by Conductor Mansfield and crew to exchange passengers both north and south with the train from below.

To Investigate Wreck.

The authorities will make an investigation to ascertain just what caused the boiler on the big engine No. 3174 to blow up.

Shipped Dead to Homes.

This morning Conductor B. A. Kelly prepared the three bodies for burial and shipped them to their homes, on the noon train on the West Shore Railroad.

MOROCCAN BANDITS.

Raisuli's Rebels Beaten by Spanish Troops.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Madrid, July 15.—The bandit followers of Raisuli are again on the warpath in northern Morocco, but have met with two sanguinary defeats at the hands of the Spanish troops. It was officially announced today.

The rebellious Moroccans heavily attacked the Spanish positions and cut communications to Tetuan and Larache (El Arish). Tetuan is but a short distance from the Mediterranean, only 22 miles southeast of Tangier. Larache is 40 miles southwest of Tangier.

Co. M Men Due Here Today.

The 100 men of Company M, 2nd Pioneer, will arrive in Kingston on the West Shore 5 o'clock train this afternoon from Camp Union. It is believed there are at least 50 of them.

Mileage Won.

The Kingston Mileage defeated the Hunter street nine this morning by a score of 3 to 5.

condition than tin. Now, don't you owe it to yourself to buy a package and give Tuxedo a trial?—Not quite as much tobacco as in the tin, but—

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 15, 1919.

RICHES IN EXILE.

As the thrifty Hohenzollerns have been reported to be keenly interested in putting away money for a rainy day as well as in Imperial domination, it is a surprise to learn that the former Kaiser drew no salary as Emperor until a few years before his abdication, the amount finally voted him being only $700,000 a year. Previously he had been forced to make both ends meet on his pay of $2,552,770 as King of Prussia until he pleaded "poverty" and secured an increase of about one million. Thus his salary as King and Emperor finally amounted to more than five and a half million dollars a year. He owned 250,000 acres of land and 56 castles, some of this property being richly productive. He also owned buildings in Berlin and other German cities which brought him large rentals. Yet in 1911 his fortune was estimated at only $35,000,000.

The fact that he was not the richest man in Germany may have been partly due to his habits of free spending. He is said to have been more lavish than any other German emperor in gifts to his family and members of the Hohenzollern house. He also paid high prices for works of art, subsidized theaters and opera houses and erected 32 statues of Prussian kings and electors in Berlin at his own expense. What the German government will do with his estates remains uncertain, but even if they are forfeited, he can still command riches in his exile—provided the victors leave him undisturbed—for he is known with prudent forethought to have deposited vast sums to his credit in the banks of neutral countries before he plunged the world into war.

American Veterans of the World War are prompt in forming an organization that, because of the vast numbers of those qualified for membership and their interest in joining, is sure to quickly become the largest fraternal society in the country. Kingston is among the first to organize a post of the American Legion, although with characteristic slowness in starting, only a small percentage of those eligible have joined thus far. Associations of this kind are as desirable as they are inevitable. There is even a greater reason for the American Legion than there was for the Grand Army of the Republic. In the Civil War regiments were formed mostly on geographical lines and regimental reunions of the Civil War Veterans are to a large extent gatherings of neighbors, thus making possible social features for the members. In the war that ended few units were formed along geographical lines, even the National Guard regiments being so moved up by transfers and replacements as to lose their geographical identity, making the holding of neighborhood meetings along the lines of regimental organization impossible. The American Legion, formed in France, with the full consent of the army officers, is a social, fraternal, protective, non-partisan and, above all, really American and the service man who does not join it misses a good thing.

Georgia comes to the fore as the first State to refuse to ratify the women's suffrage amendment. It may be taken for granted that the other southern States are likewise opposed, with the exception of Texas, and if any of them ratify it is apt to be the result of a desire to be on what is expected to be the winning side.

A recently returned German having celebrated his first day of liberty by causing the first American uniform he saw was promptly fined $15.00 by a Baltimore magistrate. It is safe to predict that he will shy at more curves at $15.00 a case, with the hazard of a thrashing prior to arrest thrown in.

Senator Ashurst recently sided with the "landed gentry" of the "old" South in the ground that he expected to run for office in the "new" South. Apparently, the "old" South is in a hurry to get back into the "new" South.

with the new soldier vote because his term does not expire till 1923.

William Allen White is quoted as saying to a British audience that "we Americans make no claim that we were of any particular military value in this war." William Allen wouldn't be likely to say that in this country, for he is the first American yet heard from who entertains such a view.

The young man who conspires with his barber to make himself look like a bald person with a hairy cap on may have coolness but can not have comeliness in view. Such a haircut may well be described as the limit in the possibilities of ugliness.

Agriculture pays so well in these days of fortunes for the producers that the old experience among boys on the farm to go to the towns and become second-rate salesmen or clerks is reported to be fast disappearing.

"We ought to investigate the expenditures of this board." "How much did it spend?" "Twenty thousand dollars." "What will an investigating committee cost?" "Thirty thousand dollars." "Good business. Go ahead."—Judge.

Bill—"I'll bet he's a coward." Gill—"I don't think so." "I'll bet every night he goes home from the club, when he gets upstairs where his wife is he shakes in his shoes." "No, he doesn't. I happen to know he always takes his shoes off before he goes upstairs."—Yonkers Statesman.

"Do you guarantee this hair tonic?" "Absolutely, sir," replied the druggist. "Six bottles of it will produce dandruff, tremors, or your money cheerfully refunded."—Judge.

Mr. Flatbush—"Oh, pshaw! I have left my watch upstairs!" Mrs. Flatbush—"Shall I run up and get it, dear?" "No, never mind. I guess if I wait long enough it will run down."—Yonkers Statesman.

"If I sell you a lot in this suburb you agree to build a house—costing not less than $20,000?" "Yes, it is the rule." "And I might suggest that my brother is an architect. He'll see that you observe the rule."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

When Sneezing Was a Bad Omen.

When sneezing was a bad omen, it was held in superstition. Our forefathers went to bed again if they sneezed while sitting on their shoes.

A sneeze in the right was deemed lucky; to the left was evil portent. To sneeze near a burial place was unlucky.

RECALLS ULSTER HUCKLEBERRY PIE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Morehouse have received a letter from their nephew, W. Clyde Morehouse, who has just returned from military service in France and is again at work with the Kansas Milling Company, Wichita, Kansas. Mr. Morehouse writes as one who knows of the agricultural conditions he observed on his trip west and of his joy at being back among familiar faces. The attractiveness of Kansas wheatfields is urged as one reason he would like to have his aunt and uncle visit him, and the taste of a huckleberry pie as made at Kerhonkson lingers with him yet.

W. Clyde Morehouse is a son of Jacob S. Morehouse, who was born in Olive and who was one of 14 children of Henry Morehouse, of whom three are living. Besides Jacob S., they are John J. of Warland, Miss., and Louis Green of Middletown. Henry Morehouse conducted the Eopius creek woolen mills at Bishop's Falls.

The letter in part follows:
340 N. Topeka Ave., Wichita, Kan., June 4th, 1919.
Dear Uncle Joe and Aunt Amelia:—I can hardly realize that it was four weeks ago this morning that I reached home. Reached home Thursday morning, May 8th. Got back to Washington Easter morning. Expected to leave Washington within two or three days after my return but did not get out until the first of May. I understand that in some way my papers got misplaced and so for several days I was anxiously awaiting my transfer. Arrived at Camp Funston on the 3rd and was given my discharge on the 7th.

Returned to work at the Kansas Milling Co. on the 15th. Can hardly realize just where the time that has elapsed since my return has gone; there have been so many things that have taken a part of it. Got home in time to be here when the local units, with one exception, got back, although of course a good many of the boys had returned as casuals from overseas and different camps. It did indeed seem good to get home, and to meet my friends and acquaintances again; for most every place I would go, would find some one whom I knew but believe me am getting re-established now and back into the usual course of things.

I fear that by your not hearing from me sooner, you will think I have forgotten you but such is not the case. Intended to write from Washington but owing to my expectation of being transferred at most any time, I put it off and then after I got here I found so many things to give attention that I have been obliged to neglect writing to you and to others to whom I owe letters.

The pictures I took at Kerhonkson I have had developed and I think two of them are good. Have not had any prints made from the films yet, but expect to have shortly and will send you the same. The third one, while not very good, possibly I can get a print of it by using special care and printing it myself. Had a sitting for my own picture in uniform and have the photo of it here now but am not altogether satisfied with it and will probably have it taken over. Will be glad to send you one of them when they are done, and also a picture of my mother.

When I came home it had either just rained or was still raining all along the way from Washington to Kansas City except for a little way in Ohio. The growing things certainly looked fine over the entire country. Was surprised at the small amount of vacant land I saw east of St. Louis and it looked to me as though, corn was being crowded out, and that everything had been sown to wheat or other small grain. Kansas has the largest wheat acreage that it has ever had and we are looking forward to the largest wheat crop in its history. What is true of the acreage in Kansas, I understand is also true of the other states. Since I came home it has rained considerably and the weather is a little cool for this time of the year; in fact, corn planting has been delayed because of the wet weather but believe when this spell passes, it will warm up and we will have clear weather.

What about your coming out to Kansas? While it is true you are both getting upward in years, I believe you would enjoy the trip and with all the modern conveniences of travel now, do not think it would work any hardship on you to make the trip. I know it would be a treat to you to see the wheat fields along about the 20th of June, just about the time they are ready to cut. If you preferred you could arrange to travel the entire distance in day light by stopping off at some of the large cities enroute and spending the night at a hotel; or if you wished to travel at night, you could take the sleeper and while that is not as good as the kind of bed you are used to, a person can sleep quite well that way; and as to meals enroute, practically all of the through trains carry a dining car, and you can get meals at more reasonable prices on these than at the hotels or cafes, service considered.

At the Baptist Church to which I belong, I met a dentist who had moved here and joined it during my absence, and upon his learning that my name was Morehouse he said he was very well acquainted with a Dan Morehouse who had worked for him and was an active worker in the church. I told him I had a cousin named Dan and described him and the doctor said it was he.

Am feeling fine, everybody says I look good. Am somewhat heavier than when I left home and feel that what army life I had did me a great deal of good. Because of the exceedingly heavy winter they had here the work at home had been very heavy for my mother and when I came home it could be easily seen that things had not been easy for her. However, she looks a great deal different now and feels much better, is able to get more rest and has no cause for worry, so do not think she will get along in the future all right.

Well, I must bring this letter to a close if it is to reach you in the near future. I hope you will come out here. Am sure you will not recog-also Wichita as being the same place you visited 15 years ago. Am mighty glad it was my privilege to visit you and appreciate very much your kindness to me. That huckleberry pie that Aunt Amelia had was, I think the best pie I ever ate. I can taste it yet. Please let me hear from you in the near future.

With kindest regards, I remain,
your nephew,
CLYDE MOREHOUSE.

FINE ORCHESTRA AT KEENEY'S

Monday evening, when for the first time in so many years the Opera House had closed its doors, the Keeney Theater at both performances had large audiences in spite of the warm weather, and those audiences, besides enjoying the pictures, had a rare treat in the music furnished. It was the first time that the new orchestra and organ had been heard, and Conductor George H. Muller, is to be congratulated highly upon the orchestra he has assembled for this theater. There are ten men in the orchestra including the organist. During the educational picture which presented the story of a little gray wolf and a big dog in a wild mountain country, and the pictures of which were rarely beautiful, picturing in sound the mountain fastnesses, the running mountain torrent, the hunt for smaller game by the two four-footed friends; the beauty of sunrise and sunset, and the more chastened beauty of the moonlight in the quiet heights of nature.

Again in the picture, "Who Cares," with Constance Talmadge as the heroine, the human emotions found remarkable expression in the music played, remarkably well played, by the organ and orchestra.

This orchestra with the fine organ will hereafter be a prominent feature of the performances at the Keeney theater. And even those who are not especially enthusiastic over the movies will find thorough enjoyment in listening to the music during any performances. To those who are especially fond of good orchestral music, this theater will be a veritable Mecca in the future.

Furthermore an orchestra of such excellence on a small scale increases constantly in our midst, the love of larger musical productions along orchestral lines, and on the other hand will give to our Symphony Orchestra added strength and support, as several new musicians have been secured to make out the full complement of this orchestra.

Getting After W. S. S. Trafficers.

Unscrupulous traffickers in Thrift and War Savings Stamps, who have again become active in New York City and other parts of the Second Federal Reserve District, which comprises New York state and the twelve northern counties of New Jersey, are being listed for prosecution by a special force of investigators, according to announcement by the War Savings Committee.

Stuyvesant Awning Affair.

There was a little excitement at the Stuyvesant Hotel late yesterday afternoon when one of the awnings in the rear was discovered in a blaze. The fire was put out without the aid of the fire department. It is not known how the awning caught fire.

WOMAN SLAYER

Found Guilty of Manslaughter by Chicago Jury.

By Telegraph to The Freeman, Chicago, July 15.—Mrs. Vera Tiepagnier, 59 years old, slayer of Paul Volland, commercial art publisher, today faces a sentence of from one year to life in the penitentiary. She was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury.

Mrs. Tiepagnier was the twenty-eight woman to be tried for murder of a man in Cook county since 1907, and the first to be convicted. Her case, however, was unusual in that it involved no element of sex.

Volland was shot and killed in his office on May 5 during a dispute over the ownership of a small miniature of George Washington.

Niles Welch has the stamina necessary to enable him to get through the difficult times of life without flinching. When he is drafted for the national army, although he realizes the necessity of sacrifice, he bravely breaks down and drowns. How he is regenerated, through the example of the heroine, whose courage and cheerfulness in the face of adversity, inspire him to overcome his unfortunate training, the picture tells in a fascinating manner.

NO HOARDING OF SUGAR HERE

Says Jobber, for Reason That Public Could Not Buy It—Lays Blame
on Federal Officials and Calls
Hoover a Fakir.

F. B. Matthews & Co., Inc.
Wholesale Grocers.
Kingston, N. Y., July 14, 1919.
Editor Kingston Freeman, Kingston,
N. Y.

Dear Sir:—I have read with amusement an article published in your columns regarding the present sugar situation. Apparently this article was drawn from some information furnished by Mr. Hoover, and if such is the case, Mr. Hoover is either a fakir or a pretentious of the first water, like many other members of the present administration. The statement contained in your article that the shortage on sugar was due to the hysterical buying and hoarding by the consumer, is as far from the actual facts as it possibly could be. As a matter of fact, since there has been a shortage of sugar or the prospects of a shortage, there has not been any to buy, and while, no doubt, there would have been some hoarding and hoarding if sugar could have been obtained, it has not been done for the above reason.

As an illustration, the normal distribution of sugar in Kingston before the jobbers, is about 500 barrels per week and this distribution was about the same in the usual manner until about June 1st, and jobbers had plenty of sugar under contract at that time, and delivered up to that time were being made promptly.
When suddenly jobbers were 50 days or more behind on shipments.

I also believe that it is due to the public that they have some idea
of the cause of the present situation
as it is, rather than as it has been published previously, as it appears to have been the purpose of these directly in charge to place the blame
on the public rather than face their
own responsibility.

Yours very truly,
F. B. MATTHEWS.

The Freeman article mentioned came from the office of the American Relief Administration in New York.

Daily Thought.
Words and feelings the wind carries away.—Herbert.

This fact would of necessity put Kingston about 2,000 barrels of sugar short.

From the best information obtainable, we believe what is known as the Sugar Equalization Committee are at fault and have instructed the refiners to export sugar rather than distribute it for domestic consumption.

I believe, upon the best information obtainable, that there is not any shortage of raw sugar in the U. S. and had not refined sugars been withdrawn from their natural channels for export there would have been no shortage whatever in this country. It is quite likely that the present condition cannot in any way possibly be changed during the next 30 days and that the consumer should conserve all possible during that time.

I also believe that it is due to
the public that they have some idea
of the cause of the present situation
as it is, rather than as it has been published previously, as it appears
to have been the purpose of these
directly in charge to place the blame
on the public rather than face their
own responsibility.

Yours very truly,
F. B. MATTHEWS.

ORDER RESCINDED.
R. R. Carpenter Says Pay Deducted
Is Being Returned.

By an order issued by the U. S.
Railway Administration at Washington, D. C., Saturday last, carpenter department employees on the West Shore and other eastern railroads will not have to refund the extra pay giving them from January 1st, 1918, and those who had a part of it taken out at the pay day June 22nd, will have it returned to them. An item was printed in the Freeman, Monday evening, taken from a Newburgh newspaper telling about it. A West Shore railroad man who saw the article in the Freeman, and who had been allowed the extra pay, informed a reporter of the Freeman last evening of the rescinding of the order.

He stated the original order that the extra pay be returned because of an error had been issued by A. H.
Smith, now president of the New York Central Lines, who was at that time regional director for the U. S.
Railway Administration of all lines

Camel Cigarettes

CAMEL cigarettes win smokers from the start because the expertly blended choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos make possible Camel's delightful mellow-mildness with that all-there "body."

Camels meet your fondest cigarette fancies in so many ways. Their flavor is unusual and refreshing; and, they permit you to smoke as long as you will without any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or unpleasant cigarette odor. They're simply a cigarette delight! That's the way you'll put it!

You'll find Camels good all the way through. It is a fact, you'll prefer Camels expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos to either kind of tobacco smoked straight! And, Camels may be smoked liberally without tiring your taste.

To know Camels best compare them in every possible test with any cigarette in the world at any price!

Camels are sold everywhere in specially sealed packages, or in packages (200 cigarettes) in a "Camel" carrying case. We strongly recommend the latter for the home or office supply or when you travel.

NAVY A "SCHOOL OF SCHOOLS"

There is a big drive on by the navy department to get enlistments in the navy. Many men enlisted for the duration of the war and now that peace has been signed they must be released, leaving vacancies that have to be filled by regular enlisted men. The reserve had many men who were students in college and have to return to complete their education. Others were learning trades and joined the navy, continuing to learn, they left the service 50% better in skill and able to demand as much more in pay. There never was a better time than now to join the service of the seas, as the opportunities for advancement are better than ever before. Merit wins in the navy as in civil life.

The navy is a "school of schools." Twenty-seven trades are taught by competent instructors. No experience is necessary. The lowest pay is $32.50 per month, and compares with salary of $100 to $200 in civil life by reason of the fact that $50 per month is allowed for food and lodging. $100 is allowed for clothing which should last two years.

Any young man over 17 years of age, who is ambitious, morally, mentally and physically fit and who desires to follow a calling of opportunity, advancement, education, instruction, pleasant duties and travel should visit the recruiting agent at the central post office.

GLASCO.

Glasco, July 14.—A neighboring farmer, anticipating a good cash return from his wheat crop, according to the price fixed by the government, and noticing that the birds were eagerly devouring the golden grain, took down his trusty rifle that was heavily loaded and went for those birds. With his eagle eye following every movement of the feathered flock he failed to notice the close proximity of his neighbors house, on the edge of the wheat field, and, blazed away. As the birds scattered away, there was a crash of glass, and a jagged opening in the side of the house where the window had been and the sliding peppered with the charge from his gun.

Proved to him the failure of his objective. Then he did some more figuring and found that the cost of replacing the window was very much in excess of the wheat stolen by the birds.

The first quarterly conference of the Glasco church will be held at the Centerville Church on Thursday evening, July 17th. Rev. G. W. Grinnon, District Superintendent of Kingston will preach and preside at the conference.

Richard Morgan and Thomas Caldwell of the A. E. F. have arrived home having been lately discharged from the U. S. Service.
